CENTENNIAL

Dean Jack Truemp

One hundred years in the annals of history are but a brief moment, but to a 1975 graduate of Muskegon High School, it means to be a part of a proud heritage.

A rugged lumber town in 1875 constructed an educational system that has weathered the years and grown stronger in each decade.

A high school that in 1974 was judged one of the top five high schools in the nation certainly means that our forefathers laid a firm foundation.

A community built on the waterfront of Muskegon Lake, while floating its logs down the river in the 1800's, was equally as concerned with providing a "reading room" for its citizens, a cultural center, and a school. One hundred years later a fine public library and art gallery, 27 public school buildings, and a community college stand as evidence to support the pioneer fathers.

This year, on our centennial birthday, it can all come together. Man works with man, woman with woman, then man and woman as one. From such work comes growth, pride, experience, happiness, and success.

To congratulate ourselves, to some, could ring as a hollow gesture, but congratulate ourselves we must. For, you see, no matter how carefully the early bricks were troweled into place, the foundation could crumble in the absence of proper care. Care from our citizens, our youth, our elected officials, in consort with our God, makes for a real celebration in 1975.

As the last diploma is given to a Muskegon High School senior in the Walker Arena on June 4, 1975, 100 years of school progress in the City will come to an end. Receive this diploma with the hope that the future years — yes, the second 100 — will be even stronger for all that you may have done to make it true.

MUSKEGON HIGH SCHOOL

1875 - 1975

The year 1975 has been named the official Centennial year for Muskegon High School. Although there is evidence that there was one graduate in 1872, the first of one hundred consecutive commencement exercises was held in 1875, with Nellie Cameron and Stella Sawyer delivering their orations to assembled relatives and friends, and listening to the spell-binding address of a Professor Henry A. Ford.

By this time the old Union School had been outgrown and was being replaced by the Central School at the same location, on Webster Avenue between Third and Fourth Streets. In September of 1875 classes were held in the new Central School, and the old Union School was moved up on Jefferson Street to become the home of Lyman G. Mason and later the Mercy Hospital. At this time the high school had 102 pupils and three teachers. Three rooms at the left of the main entrance were set aside for the use of the high school, the rest of the building providing administrative offices and elementary classrooms. The town library of 1,200 books was housed in this school, and there was a third floor assembly room for school and community meetings.

Muskegon was fortunate to have a Board of Education totally dedicated to providing the finest training possible for the youth of the area. They kept the schools abreast of the newest and best developments in education, and made possible the fine reputation Muskegon schools enjoyed. Foremost among the Board members were C. H. Hackley and Frederick A. Nims. As early as 1876 Muskegon had a special teacher of penmanship, to be followed by special teachers of music and art. A commercial and business course was added in 1886, and a training school for teachers established in 1890.

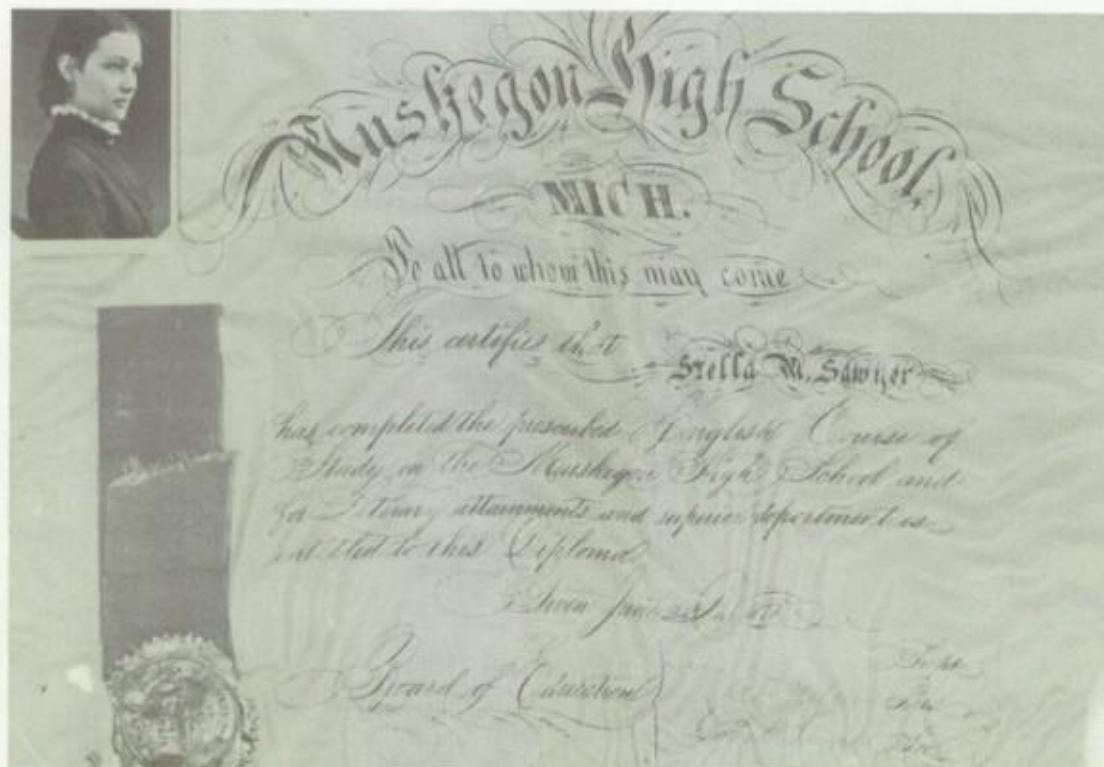

In 1890 disaster struck in the form of a fire which completely destroyed the Central School. However, on April 15, 1891, Mr. Hackley offered to buy the bond issue which would make it possible to build two schools, one on the old site, and a high school on Jefferson at Washington Avenue. As the bonds were paid off, the money would become part of the endowment fund for the Hackley Public Library. The offer was gratefully accepted, the buildings were erected and the new high school was opened for classes in September 1893.

About this time there was a new development in education, an answer to the need to provide for pupils who wanted training in industrial skills rather than the traditional classical subject matter. In 1892 Mr. Hackley offered to build and equip a manual training school and provide $5,000 a year for its maintenance as long as he lived, plus an endowment of $100,000. This was one of the earliest and best of such schools in the United States, and the first in the State of Michigan. It was opened for classes in 1897 and was a great success. In 1900 Mr. Hackley offered to build the two wings that had been in the architect's original plans.

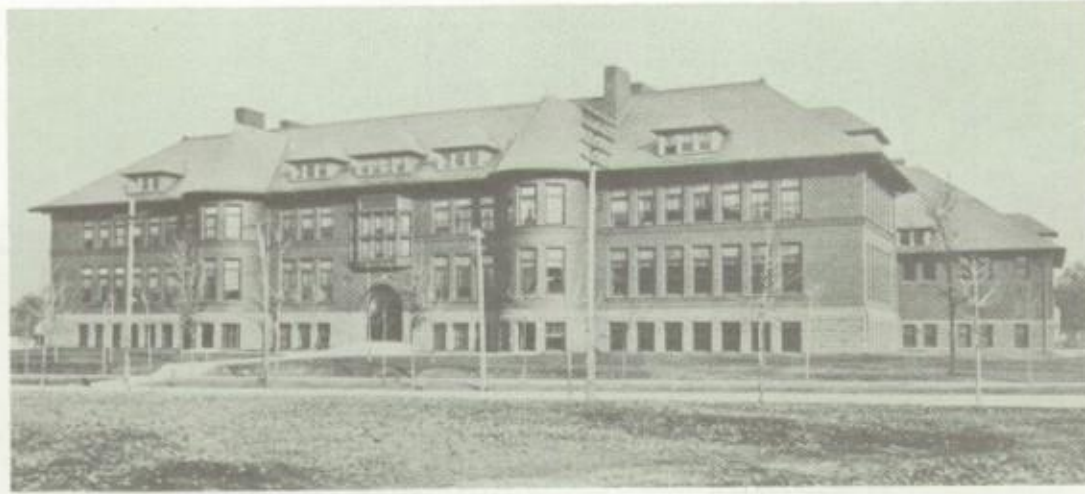

It is difficult for us to realize the tremendous impact this gift made on the whole community. Coming at a time when there was a sharp decline in the lumber business in Muskegon, it opened up opportunities to train for skilled work in the new factories which were just getting started. For many years one of the highlights of the spring term was the Manual Open House, held for two days each June. Hundreds of citizens filed through the building admiring the achievements of the boys in wood-working, drafting, foundry, printing, pattern-making, etc., and of the girls in "domestic science" and art.

One of the early interests of Muskegon students was athletics. Prior to 1885 there had been a short-lived attempt to play baseball, but in the spring of 1887 there was a serious attempt to organize a high school team. No matter that an instructor, the Principal, and an occasional outsider were drafted to play. The baseball diamond was located on a vacant tract just south of the French Catholic Church, with wagon tracks, sand holes, and a few trees providing alibis for those who committed errors.

In 1887 an athletic association was formed to introduce Rugby football to Muskegon. Field and track events were also started about this time. Sprints and races were run off on the newly laid block pavement on Jefferson Street, the 440 being run from a point near Washington to the French Church. Tennis and military drill were also introduced, but participation in high school athletics declined for a few years, due in part to the small number of male students, especially after the Central School fire.

According to the Hyperion, the high school annual published by the seniors, an active athletic association was formed in October 1895 and a committee appointed to select enough players to form a football team. After a practice game November 2nd, two cancellations because of inclement weather and four games played (the last on December 7th), the Muskegon team members proclaimed themselves Champions of Muskegon and Ottawa Counties.

There was no doubt that Muskegon citizens were enthusiastic supporters of all the high school teams, and that more adequate facilities for athletics were needed. At this point Mr. Hackley again came forward with an offer to build a gymnasium providing separate quarters for boys and girls, as well as a swimming pool for the use of all. This gift made it possible to convert the second floor room in the Manual which had served boys' and girls' physical education classes into a fine auditorium in use until 1926. The gymnasium as well as the two wings of the Manual were ready by March 1902.

In October 1902 Mr. Hackley informed the Board of Education that he had purchased the block of land just south of the Manual to serve as an athletic field. The first sketch shows plans for three tennis courts, a baseball diamond, football field, running track, grandstand, and boys' and girls' dressing rooms. A red brick wall surmounted by an iron grill was built around it; eventually the iron grill proved to be a safety hazard and was removed, and the brick wall also was finally replaced.

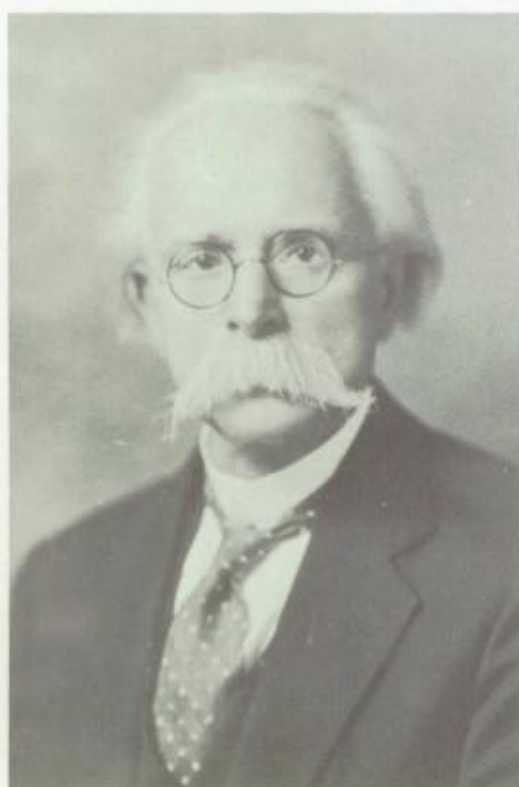

Team sports have always played a great role at Muskegon High School. We are proud of Bennie Oosterbaan and Earl Morrall, Muskegon's All-American players. We recall many others who starred on college teams, among them Mac Bowles, Flop Flora, Bill McCall, Clair Helmer, Ike Kepford, Paul Soper, and Jerry Collins. There have been fine coaches too — Robert Zuppke, who became head coach at the University of Illinois, Francis Jacks, Leo Redmond, Harry Potter, and many others. Of 684 football games played to date, Muskegon High School has won 490, lost 152, and tied one game. Boys' basketball, first organized in 1904, and baseball have equally enviable records. Spring track has flourished since 1888 when the first high school field day was held. A star of the early days was Will Mann, who set records for running the mile and two-mile that remained unbroken for years. The Temple Cup Meet was an intramural event where each class tried to win the trophy donated by Mr. A. F. Temple in 1902.

Team sports for girls were not neglected. Basketball was played before 1904, and through the years varsity championship teams were produced. In the fall there was field hockey, and in the spring the girls had their own track events. Other schools were invited to participate in inter-school meets. The Hackley gymnasium pool, inadequate as it seems today, made it possible to learn the Red Cross lifesaving techniques and to practice for the delightful swim shows the girls produced.

The high school as well as the rest of Muskegon was touched by World War I. Boys and girls in Manual classes made many articles for the Red Cross for war use. When the coal shortage hit Muskegon, schools were closed for a time, with teachers and students making up the days missed by attending school on Saturdays and foregoing spring vacation. Everyone was encouraged to grow a victory garden.

Four young men who had been students at Muskegon High School gave their lives in the war. In their honor four trees were planted at the south side of the high school. As part of the Memorial Day services, students formed a large circle around the trees and stood respectfully while flowers were placed at the base of each tree, appropriate words spoken and taps sounded. The trees are now gone, replaced by a large boulder on the west side of the building and a memorial plaque in the foyer honoring the dead of all wars.

Muskegon enjoys a fine reputation for its high quality of scholarship. For many years fine scholarship was recognized by naming the two top scholars as Valedictorian and Salutatorian of their class. In 1923 the first of the honor cups was given by the Athletic Association to honor Clayton L. Beach, who had been killed in World War I. This award is made each year to the graduating senior for outstanding achievement in athletics and sterling qualities of manhood. Subsequently through the generosity of Mr. C. W. Marsh, then President of the Board of Education, the athletic cup for girls and the scholarship cups for boys and girls were presented. Later the faculty provided the Muskegon High School Citizenship Plaque to be awarded the student showing the best citizenship and service to the school. In 1948 a chapter of the National Honor Society was organized, with juniors and seniors of outstanding scholastic achievement selected as members. Now at graduation time the "top ten" and the top tenth of the class are listed. But the most coveted honor of all remains to have one's name inscribed on the citizenship plaque or on one of the honor cups.

By 1920 the high school building, even with the Annex completed in 1908, could no longer conveniently house the number of students, grades 8 through 12, who were in attendance. For several years there had been talk of establishing a junior college for the Muskegon area. To meet this need as well as to provide additional room for the growing high school, a new building was erected on Southern Avenue on the land previously known as Deer Park. The closing of parts of Jefferson Street and Grand Avenue created the area now called the Central Campus. The new building was opened in September 1926; junior college students held most of their classes on the third floor and the Senior High took over the rest of the building as well as much of the Manual. The old high school became the Central Junior High School.

A unique feature of the new school was the auditorium located in the center of the building with the stage separated from the boys' and girls' gyms by a steel curtain which could be raised when a larger area was needed for band concerts, basketball games, proms, or other special activities.

One of the first student projects of 1926 was the drive to raise funds to build the stadium on the east side of Hackley Field. Students went out into the community selling $50 stadium bonds. Each day there was a brief assembly to inspire them to greater efforts, with Mr. C. W. Marsh coming to spur them on. The stadium continues to serve the school and community well.

Music has always had an important part in school life. Vocal music came first, and boys' and girls' glee clubs were popular. It was customary for someone in each class to compose an appropriate and often sentimental class song, which along with the class yell, was learned by every senior. The choral work of Mr. A. W. Renwick and Miss Virginia Stearns was continued by Mrs. Verna Luther, the highlight of each year being the operetta. In recent times under Mrs. Ellen Pool and Mr. David Wikman, choirs and special musical groups have reached near perfection.

By 1905 there was a school orchestra, in need of more instruments but doing its best. A band was organized also to play at football games and on other occasions. A. C. Runzler and Ronald Hinchman were among early directors of instrumental music.

In 1936 Mr. William Stewart came to Muskegon as Director of Instrumental Music. His coming ushered in a whole new era for the high school band. He invited the University of Michigan band to perform on Hackley Field for a half-time show, and their appearance so inspired the band members that the following week they marched with military precision, at least as much as could be learned in seven days. Since then the band has grown into an organization of over 100 members with a reputation for winning "A" ratings in state-wide competition, and provides a real thrill for spectators with the half-time band shows at football games, and participates in all sorts of gala events. The high school orchestra, directed for many years by Francis Martin, has also grown into a splendid performing group. The present instructors, Kent Krive and Bruce Harwood, continue the tradition of excellence in music at Muskegon High School, and give all alumni another reason to take pride in Muskegon High School.

Students of biology in the 30's and 40's remember with delight the excursions made to the school farm, where they planted trees as part of the school reforestation project. Members of the Conservation Club particularly enjoyed the picnics that were the reward for planting and pruning trees, and for building fire lanes. Mr. C. D. McLouth had for years conducted field trips for his students, and for him the school farm would have been the realization of a great dream. Miss A. Verne Fuller and other biology teachers made that dream come true.

No one can accuse Muskegon High School students of neglecting their extra-curricular activities. From the earliest days encouragement was given to every kind of speech work. The House of Representatives (for boys) and the Senate (for girls) flourished many years as debating societies, and were supplemented by dramatic productions such as the Senior Play and the operettas. There was great interest in inter-school debate and oratory and declamation contests. No one will forget the excellent plays produced under the direction of Miss Agnes Thomson, Mrs. Frances Redmond, and their successors. The Masque Club, the Purple Masque, and the Thespians all attest to the interest in this field. Debate still draws a number of serious students who study the important issues and present them as forcefully as possible to an audience.

HOMER COMER'S DAY

September 1908---One of the most enjoyable features of the "Homer Comer's Day" was the reunion of the graduates of the Muskegon High school, held at the Mackley Manual Training school, Wednesday evening, Aug. 12.

The idea of holding such a re-union originated with Superintendent Frost, although he, very generously gives the credit to another.

Congressman McLaughlin, '76, made an ideal toastmaster. The responses to the toasts were bright, witty, thoughtful and entertaining.

A permanent Alumni Association was organized and the following officers were elected:

President: Frank H. Smith, '89
First Vice President: Lulu F. Miller, '89
Second Vice President: Adele V. Lawson, '88
Secretary: E. A. Fleming, '76

"Steamroller" Proves Too Radical

William Randolph Hearst might have had competition aplenty had not John C. Newkome and T. Bryson Stahl, both of the class of 1906, strayed from the newspaper highway into other side roads.

For back in 1908 the two journalistically inclined students, then juniors in Muskegon Senior High school, co-edited a rather radical campus daily called "The Steamroller."

It was that publication that eventually led to the origin of Sala and Jones, the current monthly magazine on campus.

The paper consisted of cartoons copied from Judge or Life. Under these cartoons, which served to illustrate the events of the day, the authors placed personal comments. On one occasion the criticism of the faculty was so sharp that the present secretary-manager of the Greater Muskegon Chamber of Commerce failed to appear at his United States history class for several weeks. Once a month John and Ray issued "The Light," a magazine devoted to articles and editorials.

Since no printing facilities were available at that time, the publication was written in longhand with colored ink on foolscap, which is overruled stationery. The material often ranched a length of seven or eight pages and thus the editors made only one copy. Yet its circulation comprised almost the entire school including the teachers.

Realizing the need for a school magazine, the faculty established Sala and Jones. Archie is editor, now the managing editor of the Muskegon Chronicle, became the first editor, while J. A. Bonding, A. Cooley, L. A. Robinson, and V. V. Phelps served as advisors.

Today Muskegon Senior High school students have in a measure revived "The Steamroller" of 1908. The journalism class publishes "The Apylos", a bi-weekly product featuring campus news.

Publications have also been important. The Muskegon High School annuals of 1894 and 1895 were followed by the Hyperion, which was published nearly every year until 1903. The Said and Done followed, published monthly for many years with stories, poetry and art work contributed by students. About 1910 and 1911 an annual called The Optimist appeared, but after that the Said and Done devoted its June issue to the seniors and their activities. The Said and Done monthly issues were replaced by the Campus Keyhole, which used a newspaper format to publicize the current events of school life. The Said and Done is now issued only as the Muskegon High School annual.

There are still many clubs at Muskegon High School, and will be as long as there are interested students and a faculty member willing to serve as advisor, but transportation problems and jobs make it impossible for some to participate. Carmenta, Senate, Hi-Y, Home Ec and Latin Clubs have given way to organizations that reflect the world of 1975. Clubs for skiing, camping, chess, karate, skating, black culture, Chicano, swimming, golf, broadcasting, S.F.A.C. (Student-Faculty-Administrative Council) are the order of the day. Spirit Week, with Hat Day, Slave Day, Red and White Day, Flower Days, Homecoming events, a Snow Carnival, add zest to school life.

Cooperative business training has proved helpful for students who want to work or who feel that a full-time school program does not meet their needs. They work half days in stores, factories, or offices, gaining valuable experience under the supervision of employer and school coordinator, and spend the other half day in related school courses. This program aids pupils to earn as they learn, and give them an early start in a career.

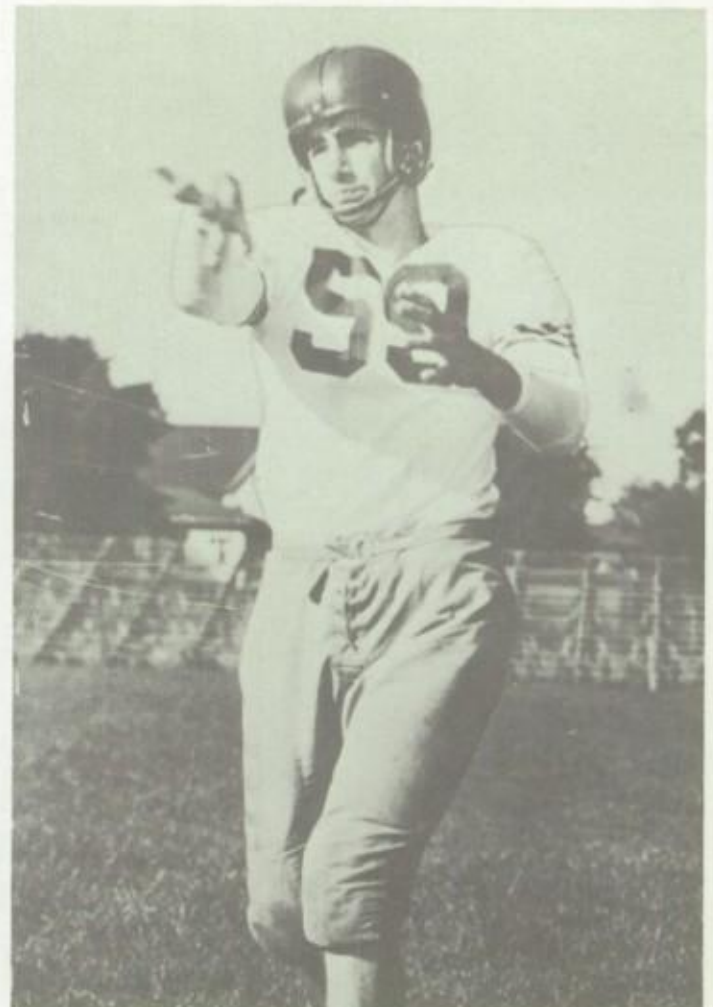

One very successful project of Muskegon High School is the foreign exchange program. In 1948 the first Muskegon teachers exchanged with their counterparts abroad. Muskegon High School students helped educate these instructors in our ways, and in return were exposed to new ideas and customs. But students learned even more from each other. In 1951 through the American Field Service, Muskegon received its first foreign students, Berndt Thomas and Norbert Wolfl. Nearly every year since 1951 Muskegon High School has had at least one or more young persons from another country. Sandy Schuler, Janice Ebrecht, Douglas Walvoord, and Ed Wingler were the first of our students to be sent to Europe for the summer. Today all exchanges are arranged by the Youth for Understanding program.

The Hackley Manual Training School was torn down in 1962 because changes to meet safety standards imposed by the State Fire Marshal were judged to be too expensive, architects had developed new designs for vocational schools, and the enlarged band had a real need for more modern quarters. So the two-story addition was erected at the north end of the building to house instrumental and vocal music groups, the biology, chemistry and physics classrooms and laboratories, and the home economics living center and classrooms and laboratories. A one-story building was constructed just west of the old high school building for the vocational shops. Commercial subjects were moved to the Annex as the laboratory for languages was set up in the old typing rooms. With the construction of Steele School the junior high pupils were removed from the Central Campus, and the historic old building was demolished in 1968. Since that time the Board of Education has purchased the block vacated by Mercy Hospital and has had the building razed. It is hoped that before too long funds will be available to erect a much needed library and a new field house.

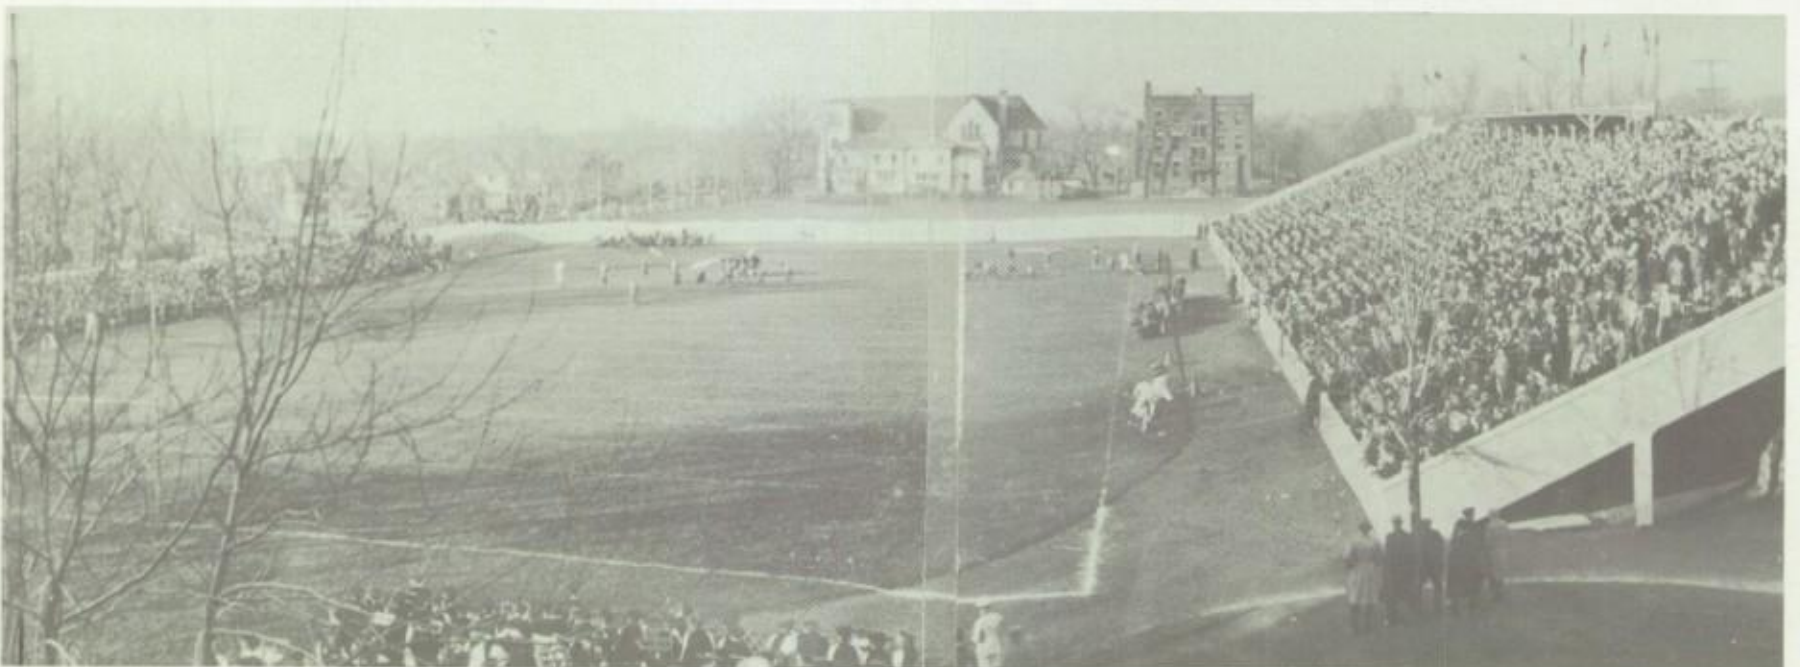

Muskegon High School is a great school, its high standards recognized by the foremost accrediting agencies of this section of the United States. It is great not because of its facilities but because of its faculties. Each alumnus can name at least one great teacher who has had a powerful influence on his life. And so shall it be as long as there is a Muskegon High School.

A century has passed since the first graduate proudly marched to the strains of a Commencement ceremony. The years have brought triumphs and defeats, happiness and sorrows, but the pride and quality of accomplishment has not diminished with the years.

Early graduates would note great changes in the school they knew, and today's graduates would look in wonder at the past they didn't know.

The common bond through all the years remains, the pride, the excellence, the feeling that can only be known by those who have been a part of a great tradition.

The Centennial celebration causes us to pause to refresh old memories, and possibly to renew past acquaintances. The pause for thought gives hope for the future, the hope that the next hundred years will be as kind as the past.

I hope that your part in this program will be as rewarding and interesting as mine. I have been truly educated as to the meaning of being a part of a school with a great tradition and history. The history is yours, and we thank you for leaving us this legacy to the future.

Please read this publication with pleasure. It is about your school, and the story is yours.

The band performed at nine out of ten games this season, in order to do this they rehearsed every day after school and Wednesday evenings. The band ended their season with Half-time Highlights, a recreation of their half-time tunes. We would like to thank the band for their hard work and fine shows.

This years team was led by Tri-captains, Randy Rahrig, Aaron Morris, and Paul Drelles. Randy Rahrig was voted Most Valuable Back, and Dave Kenny was voted Most Valuable Lineman and also Most Valuable Player. This year head coach Larry Harp was assisted by Dave Taylor and Bob Erickson.

The 1975 MHS Hockey Team, though not quite a Varsity sport, represented MHS well. This year the team participated in inter-school competition with six area schools. With a slate of ten games on schedule, the Reds captured first place over other schools. Coached by Assistant Principal Ron Kasher, future plans hopefully call for the sport to be accepted as a Varsity sport.

Tennis Team 1974

1974 saw the M.H.S. Tennis team in a state of rebuilding. Under the direction of Coach Cross, the 1974 team had many young players out. Tom Wolters was the only senior on the squad. Scott Emig, Mark Boelkins and Dave Weatherbee were the top three in singles competition for Muskegon. Tom Wolters and Don Treble were tops in doubles. 1975 should be a great year for M.H.S.

Baseball Reds 1974 County Champs

Coach Jerry Eaton's 1974 Big Red Baseball Team finished again with a fine season. They ended the year with a very respectable 16-5 record and were the Muskegon County Champs. The team established a combined team fielding average of .936 and a solid .251 batting average. Team leaders for the year were: Jeff Whitson — batting, Ted Siuda — pitching, Ted Siuda was also voted most valuable player. The 1975 Baseball season appears to be very promising with many returning Lettermen on the roster.

"I would rather have one little rose
From the garden of a friend,
Than to have the choicest flowers
When my stay on earth must end.

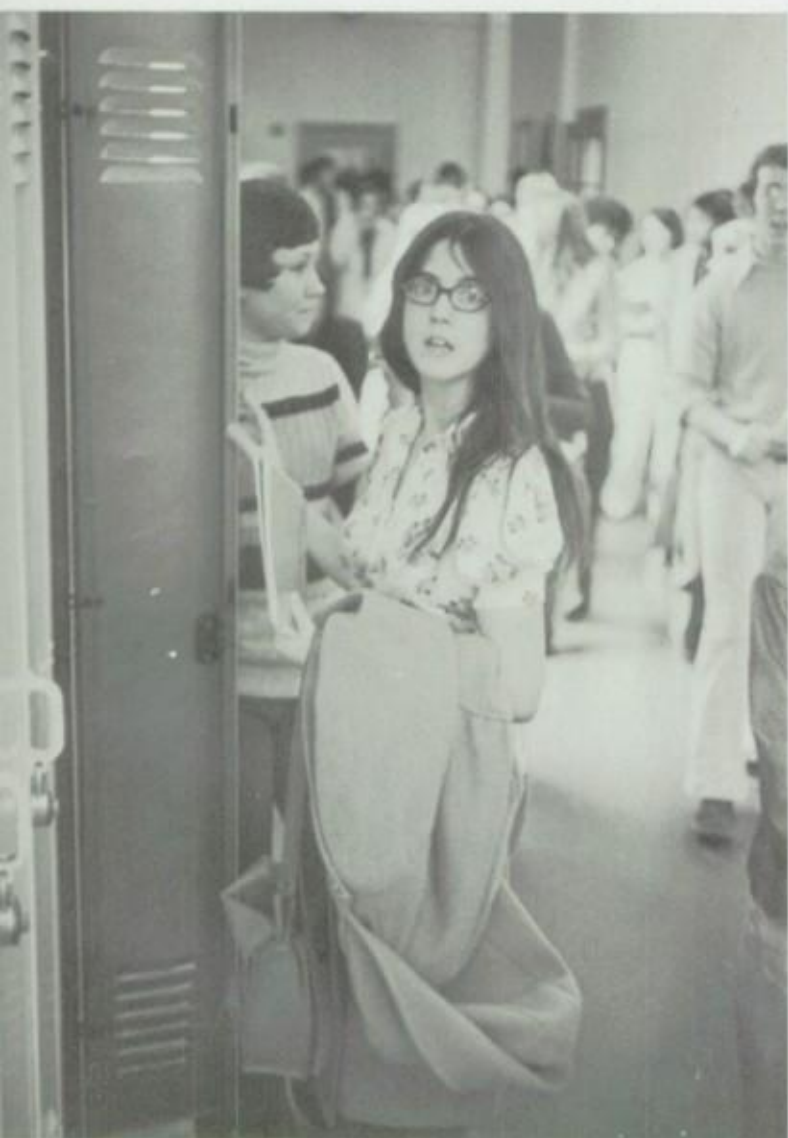

I would rather have the kindest words
And a smile that I can see,
Than the flattery when my heart is still
And life has ceased to be.

I would rather have a loving smile
From a friend I know is true
Than tears shed round by casket
When this world I bid adieu.

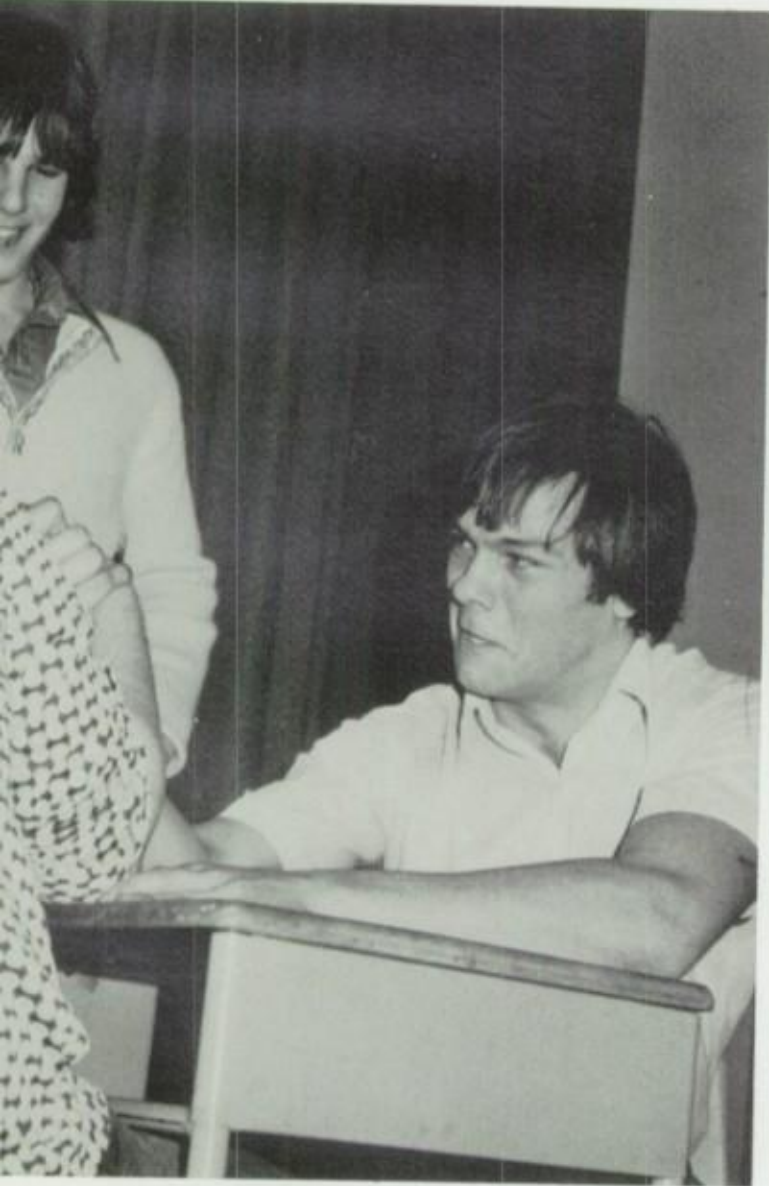

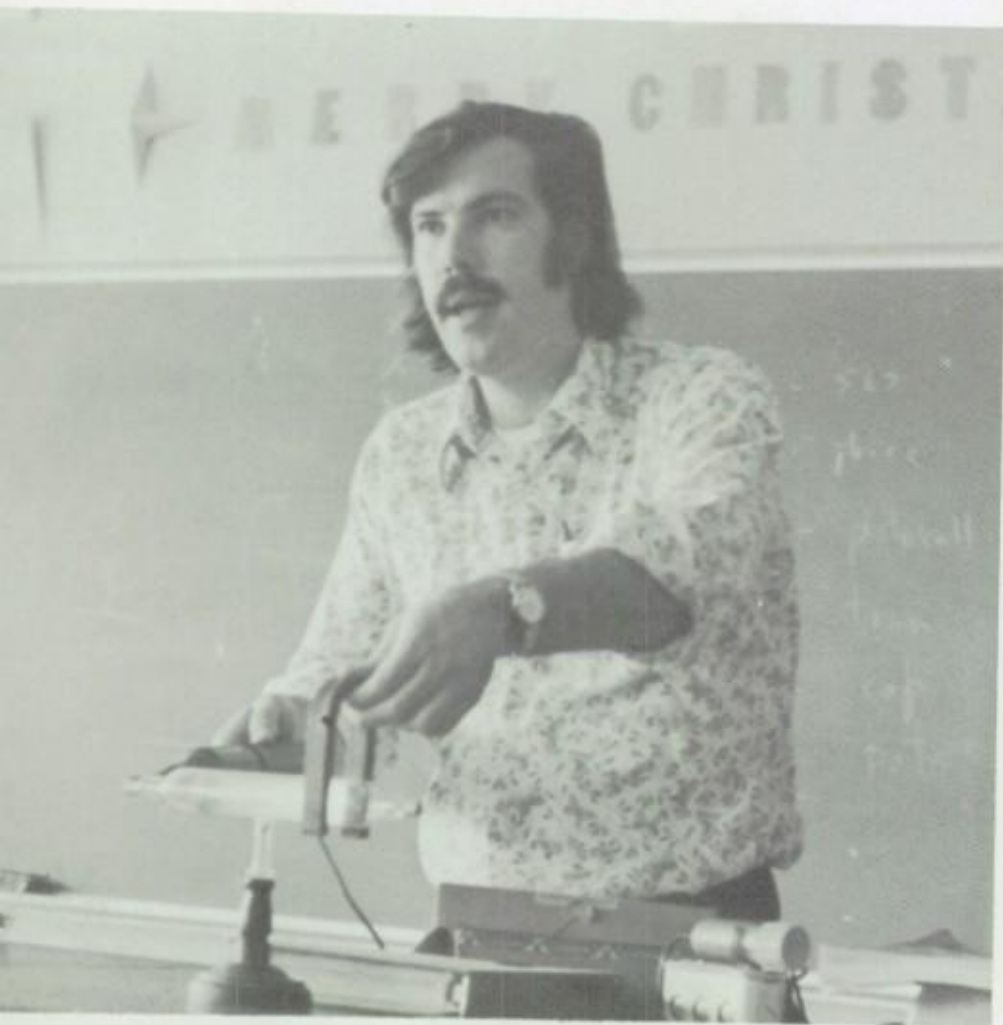

Bring me all the flowers today,
Whether pink or red,
I'd rather have one blossom now,
Than a truckload when I'm dead."

In memory of:
Tom Leighton
Doug Nelson
Mrs. Marjorie Rice

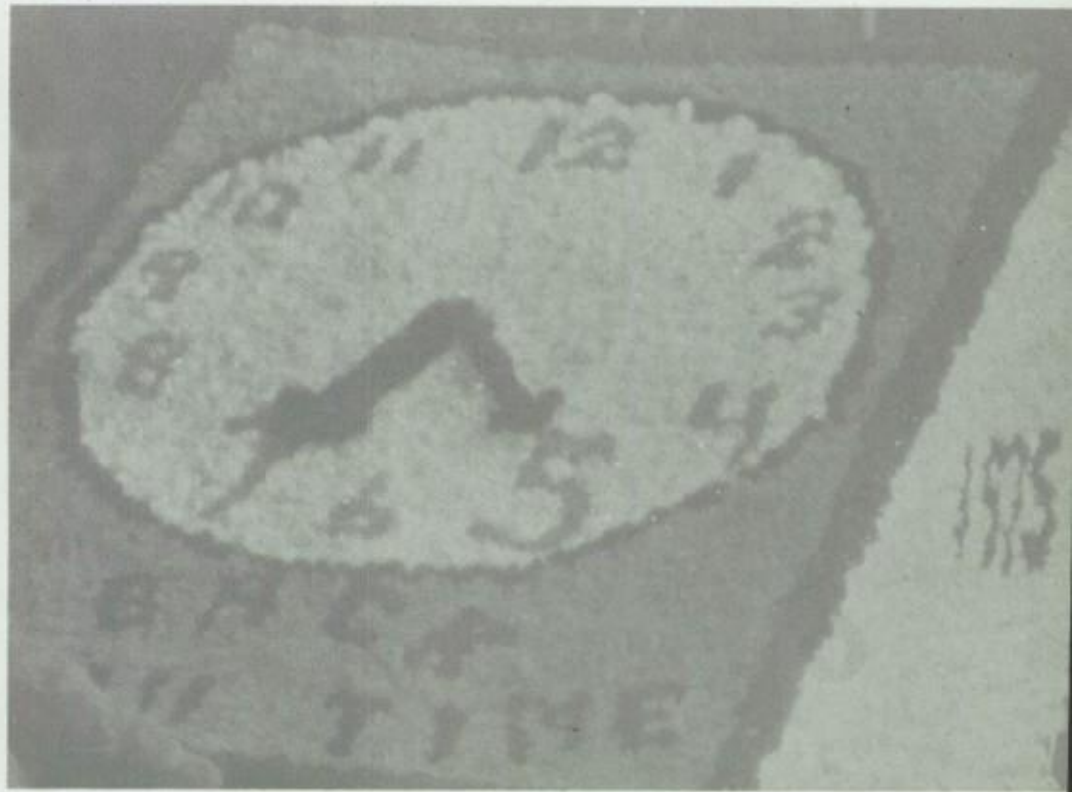

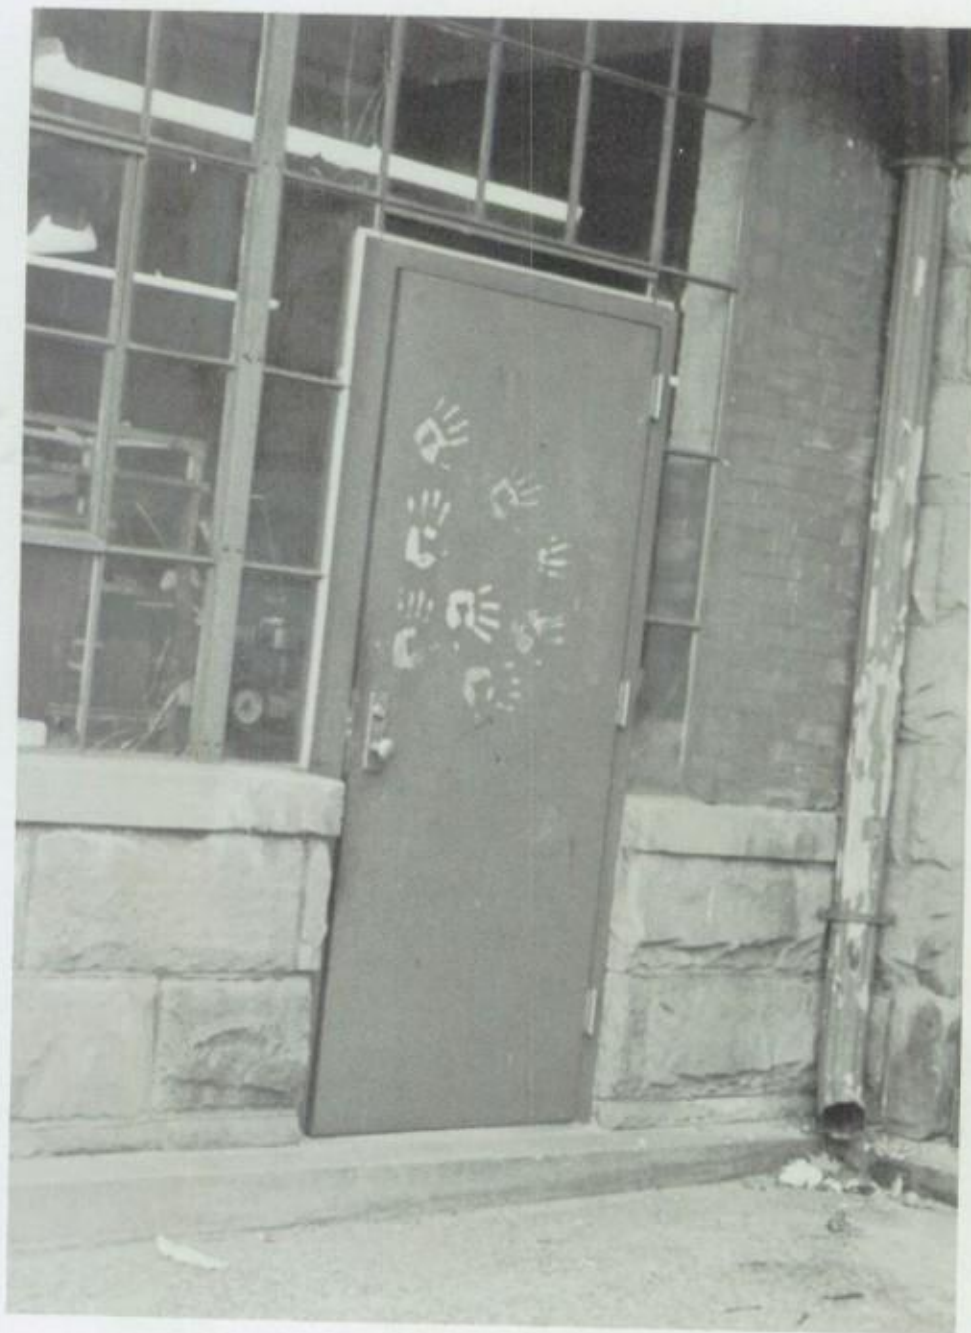

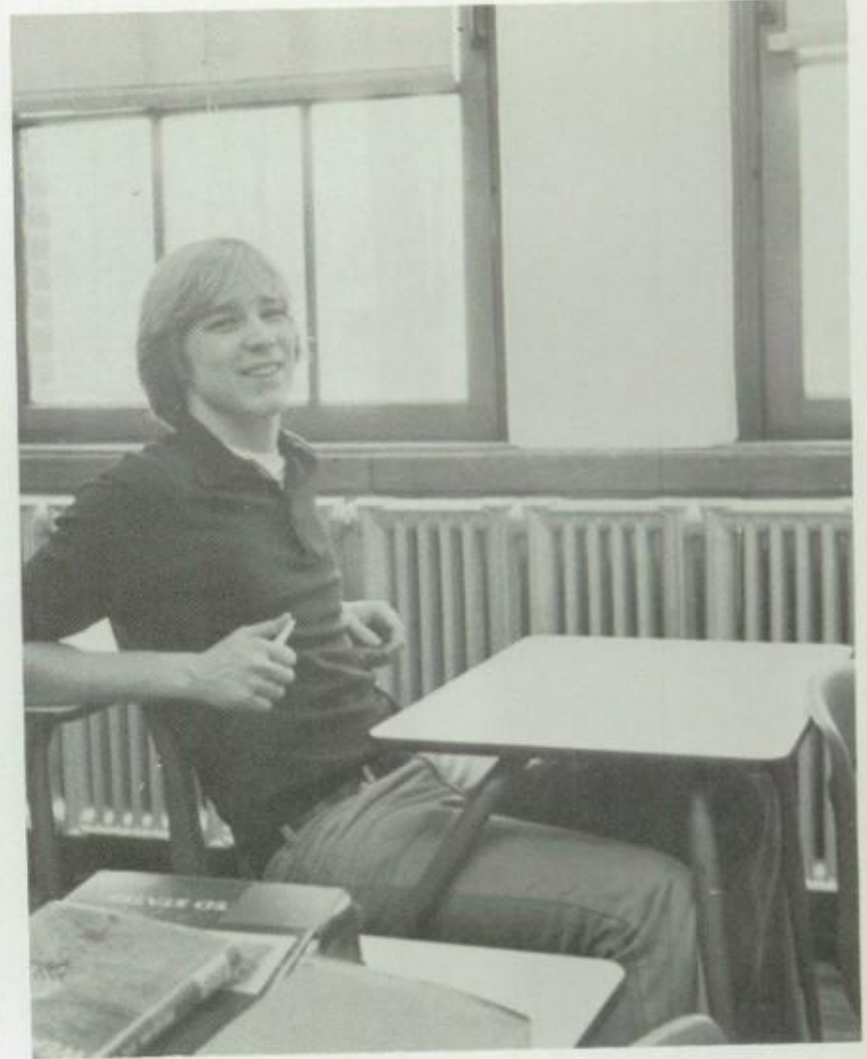

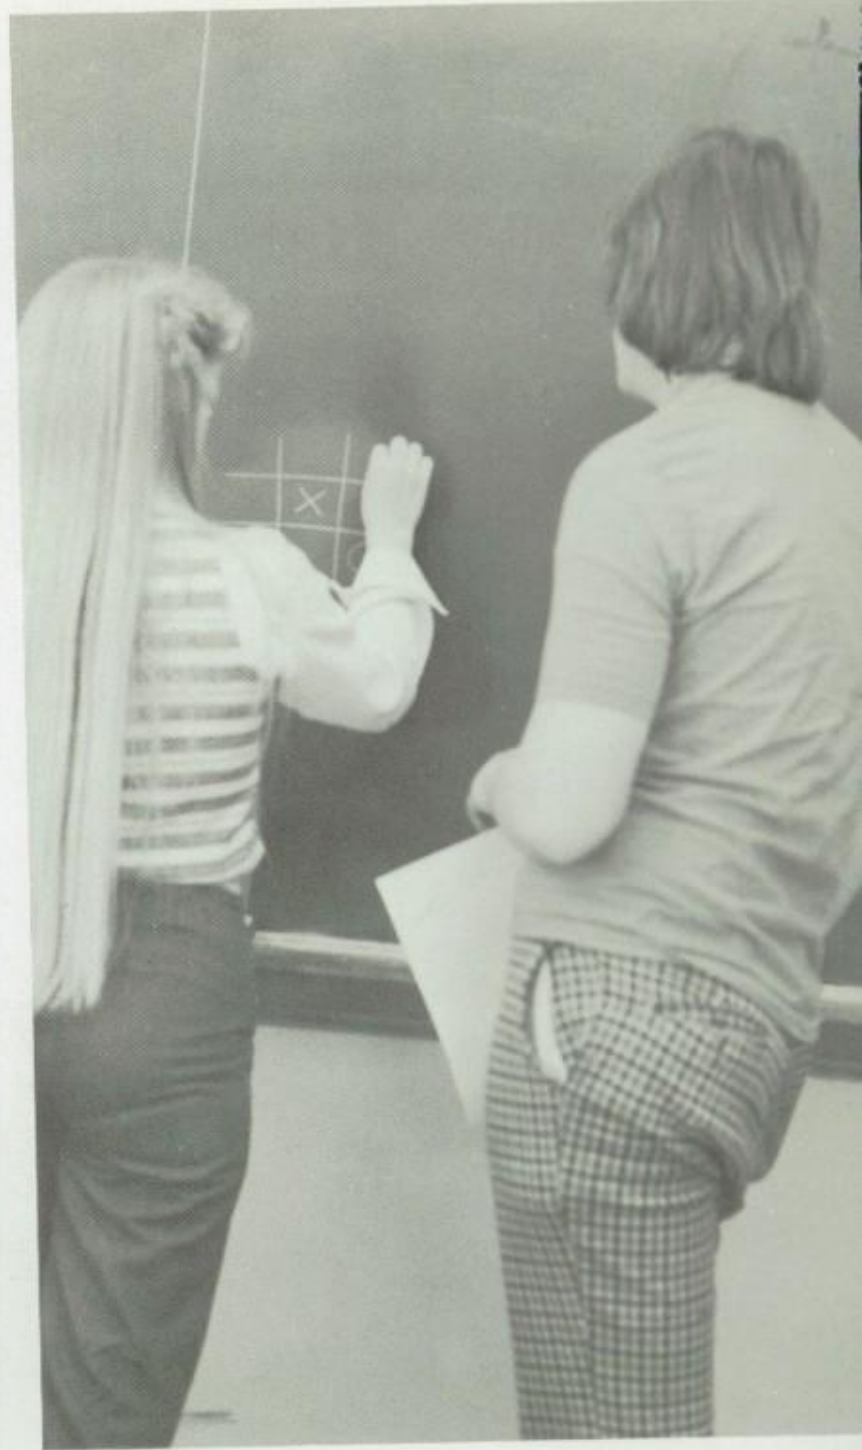

IF by Rudyard Kipling

If you can keep your head when all about you
Are losing theirs and blaming it on you;
If you can trust yourself when all men doubt you,
But make allowance for their doubting too:
If you can wait and not be tired by waiting,
Or, being lied about, don't deal in lies,
Or being hated don't give way to hating,
And yet don't look too good,
nor talk too wise;

If you can dream — and not make dreams your master;
If you can think —
and not make thoughts your aim;
If you can meet with Triumph and Disaster
And treat those two impostors just the same:
If you can bear to hear the truth you've spoken
Twisted by Knaves to make a trap for fools,
Or watch the things you gave your life to, broken,
And stoop and build'em up
with worn-out tools;

If you can make one heap of all your winnings
And risk it on one turn of pitch-and-toss,
And lose, and start again at your beginnings,
And never breath a word about your loss:
If you can force your heart and nerve an sinew
To serve your turn long after they are gone,
And so hold on when there is nothing in you
Except the Will which says to them: "Hold on!"

If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue,
Or walk with Kings —
nor lose the common touch,
If neither foes nor loving friends can hurt you,
If all men count with you, but none too much:
If you can fill the unforgiving minute
With sixty seconds' worth of distance run,
Yours is the Earth and everything that's in it,
— And — which is more — you'll be a Man, my son!
